

International Summer School

“Ancient Egyptian Art: Egyptian Images – past and present approaches” 26 to 30 July 2021 (online via zoom, approx. 2pm-7pm CET)

The LMU Munich and the Reiss-Engelhorn-Museen Mannheim are pleased to invite applications to attend the second international Summer School on “Ancient Egyptian Art” with a focus on “Egyptian Images – past and present approaches”.

The main objectives of the summer school are to offer discussion in depth and to provide specialized training in the study of ancient Egyptian art. The school will bring together international young researchers and established experts, and it will focus on an informed art-historical approach to Egyptian art forms and their environments from the temporal span of ancient Egyptian civilization, including statuary, relief, and painting, as well as complex artworks such as tomb chapels and temples. The summer school will examine form, material, and context of three- and two-dimensional artworks, discussing the analysis of various genres, and offering practical approaches to issues such as dating criteria.

The summer school will offer a unique opportunity for sharing expertise and offering all participants high-profile discussions on practical and theoretical perspectives on art-historical research, based on lectures (by the faculty and guest lecturers), presentations, group discussions and virtual museum tours. Members of the school are expected to make a 15-minute presentation on an art-historical topic or one relating to specific object(s).

The summer school invites applications particularly from PhD students and early-career postdocs who have a special interest in Egyptian art history. It is open to EU and non-EU applicants. Participants are expected to have at least a sound general knowledge of ancient Egyptian art.

Faculty:

Julia Budka (LMU Munich), Gabriele Pieke (Mannheim), John Baines (Oxford/MZAW Munich), Edith Bernhauer (LMU Munich), Simon Connor (Brussels/Liège), Patrizia Heindl (LMU Munich).
